Be an agent of hope: President's Corner

Dear friends,

Greetings in this hopeful season of spring!

Over the past few weeks, our world as we know it has already been changing. We mourn the many lives that have been lost, and our hearts go out to those who are suffering right now in solitude in hospitals and homes. However, a powerful transformation of many people's spirits and hearts is also taking place, which will have long-lasting effects in the future. Please watch this brief video of a man with the coronavirus who was on his way toward dying -- and then God "sent a cleaner"...

Happy 28th anniversary, WFWP International!

From local to global and from global to local, the Women's Federation for World Peace has served and embraced countries, families and individuals beyond religion, race or nationality.

On this 28th year since its founding on April 10, 1992, we express our heartfelt thanks to the thousands and millions of women and mothers around the globe who have invested their heart, soul and personal resources to grow this organization that is propelled by a mother's heart...

Adjusting to the new normal: WFWP Midwest update

As our lives have been disrupted in many ways by the global pandemic, so too have numerous events planned by local or regional chapters of WFWP USA. However, that will not stop our wonderful chairwoman and regional directors from coming up with alternative and creative ways to empower, collaborate with and impact their communities in an effort to spread the culture of heart. Indeed, it is needed now more than ever. Our Midwest Regional Director Fannie Smith shares her thoughts about recent changes and expresses gratitude to local chairwomen.

Every year in spring, as I look out into my yard, I am amazed at how the weathered grass, lifeless trees, and weed-covered flower beds somehow start showing signs of life and color. I am encouraged by this natural phenomenon in nature, as it relates to the COVID-19 virus we are experiencing around the world...

Healing in a new light

As we are all spending more time at home these days, we can take this opportunity to look deep within ourselves and connect to our higher selves in an effort to bring healing. Mika Rothstein is interested in healing because she believes each person has the capacity in finding their voice, and creating the life they truly desire. As of April 2020, she is close to receiving a certification as a yoga teacher, which has expanded her spiritual practice and her desire to learn and offer many avenues for healing. She has also been facilitating a meditation support group for young adults for the past two years with her sister Johanna, and recently published a book of poetry. She shares some thoughts on how we can find healing in our daily lives...

Haiti medical mission trip: A time for healing

At a time when medical care and illness prevention awareness have come to the forefront of global attention, a team of medical professionals and volunteers ventured on a special medical mission trip to the Caribbean nation of Haiti in mid-March to provide much-needed care to its impoverished population and help save lives.

Thanks to the generous support of WFWP USA donors, I was able to join the medical mission as WFWP USA senior vice president, together with Rose Gbadamassi, a WFWP member from Minnesota, and we supported a team of hardworking doctors, nurses, medical technicians and other volunteers from March 14 to 24, 2020...

First Ladies Summit in Korea

In early February, WFWP USA was honored to contribute to the World Summit 2020 in Seoul, Korea with a delegation of 20 women leaders from around the country. The successful inaugural world assembly the International Association of First Ladies for Peace (IAFLP) that took place on February 5 was hosted by WFWP together with its sister organization, the Universal Peace Federation (UPF). The values and mission of IAFLP closely align with those of WFWP, and we wanted to share an excellent report on this inaugural assembly published by UPF.

Enhancing our ability to love: WFWP Westchester holds Cornerstone for Happiness seminar

The Westchester, New York chapter of WFWP brought together about forty individuals and couples on Saturday, February 22nd, 2020, from 9:30 AM to 2 PM to introduce the Cornerstone for Happiness: Marriage and Family Seminar. In light of the social distancing practices that were implemented only a few weeks later, such a gathering is a precious memory to share for a time in the future when normal life returns.

The Cornerstone for Happiness program was created specifically by the Women's Federation for World Peace for those interested in understanding and improving their relationships. One of WFWP's fundamental approaches to bringing greater peace is to empower ourselves to strengthen relationships and families through educational programs like this...

Building a safer and more prosperous community together: WFWP Las Vegas supports Global Charity Foundation

WFWP Las Vegas partners with like-minded organizations and individuals to promote education and other much-needed services to the community. One such organization is the Global Charity Foundation, and the local WFWP chapter recently supported their annual fundraising gala with a table and some beautiful entertainment offerings. Chairwoman Sera Hirano shared her report on the event, which she felt was a positive inspiration to all who attended.
