HONORING SHINING LIGHTS AND HOPE FOR OUR COUNTRY

NATIONAL PARENTS' DAY 2019 PHOTO REPORT

Each year, in honor of Parents' Day, exemplary parents are selected by a national committee as Parents of the Year in categories representing faith communities, outstanding personal sacrifice and civic leadership, as well as one couple chosen to be overall Parents of the Year. WFWP USA President Angelika Selle was co-chair of the selection committee this year, together with former Congressman Dan Burton of Indianapolis.

In an award ceremony held at the Washington Times in Washington, DC on July 24th, 2019, eight couples were recognized for their loving parental hearts, including overall Parents of the Year 2019 Alisa and Daniel Ellis. Our readers may remember Alisa as one of the excellent panelists at the recent southwest regional launch of the Global Women's Peace Network in Las Vegas on June 22. Please enjoy the photos below...

INTRODUCING THE MONTHLY WEBINARS

As we enter a spiritual age, we at WFWP USA would like to keep the discussion going on spirituality, angels, and also the reality of the afterlife, since many people, including the younger generation, are becoming more and more interested and sensitive to this invisible realm, which is just as real as the visible physical realm.

We believe that inner peace, good health and healing are very much derived from a holistic understanding of the human experience. We are both spirit and body.

With this in mind, WFWP USA recently offered an inspiring webinar for its members that was titled "How You Can Call Your Own Circle of Angels to Energize Your Life", with Mrs. Nora Spurgin, the first president of WFWP USA...
